OF THE PRODIGAL SON.

DR. TALMAGE PREACHES A GREAT SERMON FROM LUKE XV, 20.

He Compares the Love of the Father in the Parable for His Returning Child to the Love of God for Sinners Who Repent.

BROOKLYN, June 15.—Dr. Talmage's sermon for today is on the Prodigal Son, and his text, Luke xv, 20: "When he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him." Following is the sermon:

One of the deepest wells that inspiration ever opened is this well of a parable which we can never exhaust. The parable, I suppose, was founded on facts. I have described to you the going away of this prodigal son from his father's house, and I have shown you what a hard time he had down in the wilderness, and what a very great mistake it was for him to leave so beautiful a home for such a miserable desert. But he did not always stay in the wilderness; he came back after a while. We do not read that his mother came to greet him. I suppose she was dead. She would have been the first to come out. The father would have given the second kiss to the returning prodigal; the mother the first. It may have been for the lack of her example and prayers that he became a prodigal. Sometimes the father does not know how to manage the children of the household. The chief work comes upon the mother. Indeed no one ever gets over the calamity of losing a mother in early life. Still this young man was not ungreeted when he came back.

HE WAS RAGGED AND WRETCHED.

However well apparelled we may be in the morning when we start out on a journey, before night, what with the dust and the jostling, we have lost all cleanliness of appearance. But this prodigal, when he started from the swine trough, was ragged and wretched, and his appearance, after he had gone through days of journeying and exposure, you can more easily imagine than describe. As the people see this prodigal coming on homeward, they wonder who he is. They say: "I wonder what prison he has broken out of. I wonder what lazaretto he has escaped from. I wonder with what plague he will smite the air." Although these people may have been well acquainted with the family, yet they do not imagine that this is the very young man who went off only a little while ago with quick step, and ruddy cheek, and beautiful apparel. The young man, I think, walks very fast. He looks as though he were intent upon something very important. The people stop. They look at him. They wonder where he came from. They wonder where he is going to.

You have heard of a son who went off to sea and never returned. All the people in the neighborhood thought the son would never return, but the parents came to no such conclusion. They would go by the hour and day and sit upon the beach, looking off upon the water, expecting to see the sail that would bring home the long absent boy. And so I think this father of my text sat under the vine looking out toward the road on which his son had departed; but the father has changed very much since we saw him last. His hair has become white, his cheeks are furrowed, his heart is broken. What is all his bountiful table to him when his son may be lacking bread? What is all the splendor of the wardrobe of that homestead when the son may not have a decent coat? What are all the sheep on that hillside to that father when his pet lamb is gone? Still he sits and watches, looking out on the road, and one day he beholds a foot traveler. He sees him rise above the hill; first the head and after awhile the entire body; and as soon as he gets a fair glance of him he knows it is his recreant son. He forgets the crutch, and the cane, and the stiffness of the joints, and bounds away. I think the people all around were amazed. They said: "It is only a footpad. It is only some old tramp of the road. Don't go out to meet him." The father knew better.

HIS FATHER KNEW HIM.

The change in the son's appearance could not hide the marks by which the father knew the boy. You know that persons of a great deal of independence of character are apt to indicate it in their walk. For that reason the sailor almost always has a peculiar step, not only because he stands much on shipboard amid the rocking of the sea, and he has to balance himself, but he has for the most part an independent character, which would show to his gait, even if he never went on the sea; and we know from what transpired afterward, and from what transpired before, that this prodigal son was of an independent and frank nature; and I suppose that the characteristics of his mind and heart were the characteristics of his walk. And so the father knew him. He puts out his withered arms toward him; he brings his wrinkled face against the pale cheek of his son; he kisses the wan lips; he thanks God that the long agony is over. "When he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him."

DO YOU NOT RECOGNIZE THE FATHER?

Oh, do you not recognize that Father? Who was it? It is God! I have no sympathy with that cast iron theology which represents God as hard, severe and vindictive. God is a Father—kind, loving, lenient, gentle, long suffering, patient, and he flies to our immortal rescue. Oh, that we might realize it. A wealthy lady in one of the eastern counties was going off for some time, and she asked her daughters for some memento to carry with her. One of the daughters brought a marble tablet, beautifully inscribed; and another daughter brought a beautiful wreath of flowers. The third daughter came and said: "Mother, I brought neither flowers nor tablet, but here is my heart. I have inscribed it all over with your name, and wherever you go it will go with you." The mother recognized it as the best of all the mementoes. Oh, that our souls might go out toward our Father; that our hearts might be written all over with the evidences of his loving kindness, and that we might never again forsake him.

In the first place, I notice in this text the father's eyesight; in the second place, I notice the father's haste; and, in the third place, I notice the father's kiss.

HE SAW HIM "A GREAT WAY OFF."

To begin: The father's eyesight. "When he was a great way off his father saw him." You have noticed how old people sometimes put a book off on the other side of the light. They can see at a distance a great deal easier than they can close by. I do not know whether this father could see well that which was near by, but I do know he could see a great way off. "His father saw him." Perhaps he had been looking for the return of that boy especially that day. I do not know but that he had been in prayer, and that God had told him that that day the recreant boy would come home. "The father saw him a great way off."

I wonder if God's eyesight can descry us when we are coming back to him? The text pictures our condition—we are a great way off. That young man was not farther off from his father's house, sin is not farther off from holiness, hell is not farther off from heaven, than we have been by our sins away off from our God; aye, so far off that we could not hear his voice, though vehemently he has called us year after year. I do not know what bad habits you may have formed, or in what evil places you have been, or what false notions you may have entertained; but you are ready to acknowledge, if your heart has not been changed by the grace of God, that you are a great way off—aye, so far that you cannot get back of yourselves. You would like to come back. Aye, this moment you would start, if it were not for this sin, and that habit, and this disadvantage.

But I am to tell you of the Father's eyesight. "He saw him a great way off." He has seen all your frailties, all your struggles, all your disadvantages. He has been longing for your coming. He has not been looking at you with a critic's eye or a bailiff's eye, but with a father's eye; and if a parent ever pities a child, God pities you. You say: "Oh, I had so many evil surroundings when I started life." Your Father sees it. You say: "I have so many bad surroundings now, and it is very difficult for me to break away from evil associations." Your Father sees it, and if you should start heavenward—as I pray you may—your Father would not sit idly down and allow you to struggle on up toward him. Oh, no! Seeing you a great way off he would fly to the rescue. How long does it take a father to leap into the middle of the highway if his child be there and a swift vehicle is coming and may destroy him? Five hundred times longer than it takes our heavenly Father to spring to the deliverance of a lost child. "When he was a great way off his father saw him."

HE HASTENED TO GREET HIM.

And this brings me to notice the father's haste. The Bible says he ran. No wonder! He did not know but that the young man would change his mind and go back. He did not know but that he would drop down from exhaustion. He did not know but that something fatal might overtake him before he got up to the doorsill; and so the father ran. The Bible, for the most part, speaks of God as walking. "In the fourth watch of the night," it says, "Jesus came unto them walking on the sea." "He walketh upon the wings of the wind." Our first parents heard the voice of the Lord, walking in the garden in the cool of the day; but when a sinner starts out for God the father runs to meet him. Oh! if a man ever wants help it is when he tries to become a Christian. The world says to him: "Back with you. Have more spirit. Don't be hampered with religion. Time enough yet. Wait until you get sick. Wait until you get old." Satan says: "Back with you; you are so bad that God will have nothing to do with you;" or, "You are good enough and need no Redeemer. Take thine ease, eat, drink and be merry." Ten thousand voices say: "Back with you. God is a hard master. The church is a collection of hypocrites. Back into your sins; back to your evil indulgences; back to your prayerless pillow. The silliest thing that a young man ever does is to come home after he has been wandering." Oh, how much help a man does want when he tries to become a Christian! Indeed, the prodigal cannot find his way home to his father's house alone. Unless some one comes to meet him he had better have stayed by the swine troughs.

When the tide comes in you might more easily with your broom sweep back the surges than you could drive back the ocean of your unforgiven transgressions. What are we to do? Are we to fight the battle alone, and trudge on with no one to aid us, and no rock to shelter us, and no word of encouragement to cheer us? Glory be to God, we have in the text the announcement: "When he was yet a great way off his father ran. When the sinner starts for God, God starts for the sinner. God does not come out with a slow and hesitating pace. The infinite spaces slip beneath his feet and he takes worlds at a bound. "The father ran." Oh, wonderful meeting, when God and the soul come together. "The father ran." You start for God and God starts for you, and you meet; and while the angels rejoice over the meeting your long injured father falls upon your neck with attestations of compassion and pardon. Your poor, wandering, sinful, polluted soul, and the loving, the eternal Father, have met.

THE FATHER'S KISS.

I remark upon the father's kiss. "He fell on his neck," my text says, "and kissed him." It is not every father that would have done that way. Some would have scolded him, and said: "Here, you went off with beautiful clothes, but now you are all in tatters. You went off healthy, and come back sick and wasted with your dissipations." He did not say that. The son, all haggard and ragged and filthy and wretched, stood before his father. The father charged him with none of his wanderings. He just received him. He just kissed him. His wretchedness was a recommendation to that father's love. Oh, that father's kiss! How shall I describe the love of God?—the ardor with which he receives a sinner back again? Give me a plummet with which I may fathom this sea. Give me a ladder with which I can scale this height. Give me words with which I can describe this love. The apostles say in one place, "unsearchable;" in another, "past finding out." Height overtopping all height; depth plunging beneath all depth; breadth compassing all immensity.

Oh, this love! God so loved the world he loves you. Don't you believe it? Has he not done everything to make you think so? He has given you life, health, friends, home—the use of your hand, the sight of your eye, the hearing of your ear. He has strewn your path with mercies. He has fed you, clothed you, sheltered you, defended you, loved you, importuned you all your life long. Don't you believe he loves you? Why, if now you should start up from the wilderness of your sin he would throw both arms around you. To make you believe that he loves you he stooped to manger and cross and sepulchre. With all the passions of his holy nature roused he stands before you today, and would coax you to happiness and heaven. Oh, this father's kiss! There is so much meaning and love and compassion in it; so much pardon in it; so much heaven in it. I proclaim him the Lord God, merciful, gracious and long suffering, abundant in goodness and truth. Lest you would not believe him he goes up Golgotha, and while the rocks are rending, and the graves are opening, and the mobs are howling, and the sun is hiding, he dies for you. See him! See him on the Mount of Crucifixion, the sweat on his brow tinged with the blood oozing from his lacerated temples! See his eyes swimming in death! Hear the loud breathings of the sufferer as he pants with a world on his heart! Hark to the fall of the blood from brow and hand and foot on the rocks beneath—drop! drop! drop! Look at the nails! How with the wounds are! Wider do they gape as his body comes down upon them. Oh! this crucifixion agony! Tears melting into tears. Blood flowing into blood. Darkness dropping on darkness. Hands of men joined with hands of devils to tear apart the quivering heart of the Son of God!

WILL YOU ACCEPT THE KISS?

Oh, will he never speak again? Will that crimson face never light up again? He will speak again; while the blood is suffusing his brow, and reddening his cheek, and gathering on nostril and lip, and you think he is exhausted and cannot speak, he cries out until all the ages hear him: "Father, forgive them, they know not what they do!" Is there no emphasis in such a scene as that to make your dry eyes weep and your hard heart break? Will you turn your back upon it, and say by your actions what the Jews said by their words: "His blood be on us, and on our children?" What does it all mean, my brother, my sister? Why, it means that for our lost race there was a father's kiss. Love brought him down. Love opened the gate. Love led to the sacrifice. Love shattered the grave. Love lifted him up in resurrection. Sovereign love! Omnipotent love! Infinite love! Bleeding love! Everlasting love!

Oh, for this love let rocks and hills
Their lasting silence break;
And all harmonious human tongues
The Saviour's praises speak.

Now, will you accept that Father's kiss? The Holy Spirit comes to you with his arousing, melting, alarming, inviting, vivifying influence. Hearer, what creates in thee that unrest? It is the Holy Ghost. What influence now tells thee that it is time to fly, that to-morrow may be too late; that there is one door, one road, one cross, one sacrifice, one Jesus? It is the Holy Ghost.

THE LORD IS GOING TO SAVE YOU.

My most urgent word is to those who, like the young man of my text, are a great way off, and they will start for home and they will get home. They will yet preach the Gospel, and on communion days carry around the consecrated bread, acceptable to everybody, because of their holy life and their consecrated behavior. The Lord is going to save you. Your home has got to be rebuilt. Your physical health has got to be restored. Your worldly business has got to be reconstructed. The church of God is going to rejoice over your discipleship. You are not Gospel hardened. You have not heard or read many sermons during the last few years. You do not weep, but the shower is not far off. You sigh, and you have noticed that there is always a sigh in the wind before the rain falls.

There are those who would give anything if they could find relief in tears. They say: "Oh, my wasted life! Oh, the bitter past! Oh, the graves over which I have stumbled! Whither shall I fly? Alas for the future! Everything is dark—so dark, so dark. God help us! God pity me!" Thank the Lord for that last utterance. You have begun to pray, and when a man begins to petition, that sets all heaven flying this way, and God steps in and beats back the hounds of temptation to their kennel, and around about the poor wounded soul puts the covert of his pardoning mercy. Hark! I hear something fall. What was that? It is the bars of the fence around the sheepfold. The shepherd lets them down, and the hunted sheep of the mountain bound in; some of them their fleece torn with the brambles, some of them their feet lame with the dogs; but bounding in. Thank God! Saved for time, and saved for eternity.

Poetic Sentiment.

To apply the poetic words "a medicine that's able to breathe life into a stone" to B. B. B. savors of exaggeration, but considering its countless cures and wonderful work even exaggeration seems justifiable if it convinces those who hesitate to try B. B. B. and be cured.

TRIED TO CHEAT THE GALLOWS

Mrs. Elizabeth Potts Tries to Commit Suicide Just Before Her Execution.

ELKO, Nevada, June 21.—Josiah Potts and his wife Elizabeth were hanged here this morning for the murder of Miles Fawcett, a rancher at Carlin, on January 1st, 1888. The doomed couple retired early last night, but were unable to sleep as they were both in a terribly nervous condition. The sheriff fearing that some of their friends might attempt to smuggle poison into them caused orders last night to be issued that no more visitors be allowed in the jail. He had every reason to believe that if an opportunity was afforded them they would cheat the gallows by taking their own lives. That he was right in his surmises was shown at five o'clock this morning when it was found that Mrs. Potts, despite the vigilance of the death watch had attempted to commit suicide. She had been rather unstrung throughout the early part of the night and when she was quieted down about 8 o'clock the watchers were pleased. They thought that she had fallen to sleep and hoped that she would not wake until near the hour set for execution as they feared she would give them trouble as she had displayed a very ungovernable temper during the last few days. She was not asleep, however, as the jailors subsequently learned to their consternation. While they thought she was taking the rest she badly needed to assist her in bearing up under the trying ordeal she had to face she was plotting to end her life. After a time the watchers became suspicious that all might not be right, and one of them entered the cell. He heard a choking sound and sprang to the side of the cot. He found that she had covered her face with clothes and he hastily threw them down and with a startling cry he called to the others of the death watch, for the bed clothes were blood stained. It was then found that she had opened the arteries in her wrist and was slowly bleeding to death. Not being contented to wait till she died from the loss of blood, she had stuffed the corner of the sheet in her mouth and was trying to suffocate herself. The deputies quickly bandaged the wounds on her wrists to stop the flow of blood, and a message was hurriedly dispatched for a physician. Before he arrived she fainted from loss of blood, but she regained consciousness after the surgeon bandaged the wounds. She was still very weak and stimulants were used to revive her. Had she remained bleeding much longer, it is more than probable that Potts would have had to face death alone on the scaffold. About ten o'clock the sheriff entered the cells of the condemned and read the death warrant. There was then a little delay and the two prisoners were escorted to the scaffold. They ascended the scaffold with firm, steady steps and seemed to have no fear. Mrs. Potts, who was a large woman of 180 pounds, was dressed in a suit of cashmere trimmed with black crape and a black belt encircled her waist. She didn't utter a single word or lift her eyes to look around after a glance on entering the prison yard. As soon as the couple were on the scaffold their arms and legs were firmly pinioned. An attendant clergyman uttered a brief prayer, the black caps were adjusted and at 10:4 the drop fell. Both died without a struggle.

An Illustration of Hypnotism.

Dr. Hammond the well known medico of Belleville Hospital, gives the following as an illustration of the wonderful curative powers of hypnotism. I explained to an audience of medical men said the doctor, the evil that can be done through hypnotism if criminally applied. I placed a man in a hpynotic trance, and when he was fully under the influence I pointed out a certain man in the audience and told the subject that that man had killed his mother. I folded up a newspaper and told him that it was a dagger and to go and kill the murderer of his mother. Catching the newspaper in his right hand he began to creep stealthily about the room. There were hundreds of men in the place, but he only saw the one I had pointed out as the murderer. He stole around to the rear of the room, keeping close to the wall. When behind the man he began to approach on his hands and knees until he got within a foot of his victim. Then he jumped up and fell furiously upon the man, jabbing the newspaper against his back and neck a dozen times. When he thought he had killed him he showed all the nervousness and excitement of a criminal fresh from murder.

He crept back to me and I told him to keep still. Like every one in a hypnotic state he obeyed. Three minutes afterward I roused him out of the trance, and he did not remember a bit of what had occurred.

IS THE TELEGRAM WEAKENING?

Our later contemporary, the Vancouver Telegram, hitherto in support with the TIMES, gives evidence of relapsing from that high estate, which means of course, that sooner or later it will repose on "Honest JOHN'S" bosom. This, to be sure, is the privilege of the Telegram. If that paper prefers the soft sitting place that "Honest JOHN" affords, proximity to the pap bottle, and all the "good things" as "Honest JOHN" puts it, when he is haranguing the electors, to the crumbs that happen to fall from the Opposition table, well and good. The TIMES, certainly, will not complain, utter no reproaches. It will go no farther than to quote the old woman when the cow ate up the grindstone. It will exclaim, "I told you so!" "But," the Telegram will ask, "in what respect do we evince symptoms of going over to the grand old redistributor?" The evidence that the Telegram is beginning to cast sheep's eyes at the Government is no larger than a man's hand, is but a speck on the political horizon, but studying these slight symptoms we find in the "TIMES bugaboo," the $200 deposit, indubitable evidence that the Telegram is wearing ship. The newspaper that can endorse this cowardly refuge of a buttered politician can swallow the rest of the acts of the Government as easily as it would a raw oyster. Of all the acts of the Government the $200 deposit requirement is the least defensible, because under the guise of a measure in the public interest, it places the poor man who aspires to a place in Parliament at a disadvantage with the rich man. Such a measure was never contemplated by the originators of our system of government. If the spirit of our institutions means anything, it means that any man is eligible for a public office without the necessity of putting up an entrance fee as if he was a trotting horse or a prize ball. The framers of our political system were not thinking of an agricultural fair when they decreed that a seat in Parliament was not contingent on a bank account. Had they felt that candidature for parliamentary honors were liable to be abused, they would have anticipated the Attorney-General by prescribing the entrance fee themselves. Nor shall we suppose that the Attorney-General is wiser than they. We have had samples of his legislation, some of which the Telegram does not approve. May we suppose that the Attorney-General all on a sudden is a "Daniel come to judgment?" We have already pointed out in these columns that the spirit of the bill is bad, that the abuses which are liable to spring from it are worse than those which it is designed to obviate. It is a handicap on the poor men, it is a deterrent to moderately well off men, without in any sense proving a hamper to rich men, or the tools of rich men, it is a remedy, in fact, which is worse than the disease. This measure of all others indicates the small calibre of the moral perceptions of the Government. Judging the world by themselves they legislate accordingly. It is a distinct avowal that the Government dare not come before the people on their own merits. He who is afraid of promiscuous candidature is afraid of himself has been engaged in some dishonest political measure. Still if the law worked as much hardship on the rich as it does on the poor it would not be so objectionable. What we contend for in politics is a fair field and no favor.

LEGAL VERBIAGE.

One crying need of the times, observes an American contemporary, is a reform in the absurd and cumbrous phraseology inherited from the clerks and scriveners of the middle ages, which defaces our legal forms of all kinds. It was invented by those gentlemen because they were paid by the word, as our literary men are paid to-day; but, unlike our literary men, the clerks and scriveners had no authority above them to edit their copy or decline it with thanks if it were padded out to undue attenuation of thought. The excuse for retaining it is substantially the excuse that is given by the adherents of all exploded absurdities—that what was good enough for our ancestors is good enough for us. Words and phrases, it is urged, carry a certain meaning in law which has been established by custom and precedent, and it were dangerous to meddle with them. New words and new phrases would have to run the gauntlet of judicial Dogberrys who might put upon them a totally different construction from that intended by their framers. Nevertheless, the risk is worth running. Custom and precedent should be refashioned to suit the spirit of the times. There is absolutely no doubt that a suit for specific performance of contract based simply upon a receipt properly attested for money paid—e. g., "for the fee-simple of a house and lot known as Number Blank, in Blank Street, ——" would be duly enforced in a court of equity. A totally unnecessary expenditure is involved in drawing up that congestion of verbal eccentricities known as a "deed," and in recording it. Millions of dollars are thrown away every year to keep up this obsolete system—millions that could be saved to states and individuals alike by the exercise of a little common sense. It is astonishing that property-owners have stood this imposition so long. A few test-cases, and, if necessary, an appeal to the legislature, would settle the matter for all time. Yet property owners are afraid to stir in the matter, because they are afraid to meddle with the wisdom of our ancestors. We have abolished mumbo-jumbo in other departments of human intelligence; we still bow down in reverence to the mumbo-jumbo of the law. Medicine and theology, to be sure, have an esoteric phraseology of their own, but the phraseology is not cumbrous and antiquated like that of the law—it is really the shortest and most direct form of expression that human wit has yet devised. We do not object to technical terms in law, for every science must have its technicalities, but to the absurd and meaningless repetitions that obscure the sense and retard the expression of the idea, for no other purpose than to increase the perquisites of lawyers and conveyancers. If only such pet words as "the said" and "the aforesaid" were left out of the ordinary conveyance, its bulk would be decreased by ten per cent., and to that extent the purchaser of property, and the country which has to build huge halls to house the records and keep an army of engrossing clerks to transcribe them—to that extent exactly both would be benefited. There is no reason, however, why country and citizen should not be benefited to a still larger extent, why fully ninety per cent. of the present verbiage might not be suppressed with even more than corresponding advantages. For in that case every citizen of ordinary intelligence might become his own conveyancer of real estate as he is his own conveyancer of personal effects. An unnecessary and exhorbitant tax would thus be removed from investors in houses and lands.

THE AFRICAN ADJUSTMENT.

Glancing over the terms of SALISBURY's agreement with Germany in the matter of the division of the colonial empire in Africa, we find that they are not very intelligible. But the remarkable feature of the transaction is that the terms of the actual treaty are less favorable to England than those of a forecast published in the St. James Gazette, a journal which in some way is understood to be the English exponent of the German mind. If this supposition is correct Lord SALISBURY has accepted terms less favorable than Germany was willing to grant. These are the terms of the St. James Gazette forecast:

Germany is to surrender Witu and the adjacent territory to England, thus giving England sole possession of all the coast as far south as a little beyond Mombasa, say to 5 degrees south latitude. Thence southward to Mozambique the Zanzibar coast will be exclusively under German influence. Inland, the boundary line between the English and German territories, beginning at the coast in latitude south 5 degrees, will run northwest until it strikes the eastern shore of Victoria lake, in latitude south 1 degree, say at Kavirando, thence on that parallel across the lake, across the Kitwara mountains, across Albert Edward lake, to the Congo state. This would give to England the noble peak of Kenia and to Germany that of Kilima Njaro. It would divide Victoria lake equally. It would give the kingdom of Uganda to England, and also, presumptively, the province formerly ruled by Emin Pasha, though this is not specified. England is also to have a right of way from Victoria lake southwest to Lake Tanganyika, to retain absolute control of the highway from Lake Tanganyika to Lake Nyassa, and to possess the Urungu territory, between Lake Tanganyika and Rangweolo. This would give England a highway for commerce from the equator directly around the rear of the German possessions, down the Shire and Zambesi rivers to the Indian Ocean. It would give her direct contact with and access to the Congo State at its interior or eastern boundary; and, if she retains her hold upon Egypt and take Emin's territory, it would give her the whole Nile, from source to delta. It would, indeed, give England the very advantages over Germany that it has been feared Germany would get over England.

"This agreement," points out an American paper, "would have given England less advantage on the coast than the one actually made, but this would have been more than compensated by its definite settlement of the right to disputed territory in the interior, in relation to which the treaty does not seem clear. The real dispute is for the possession of the rich territory in equatorial Africa, which can be reached either by the Nile or the Congo, rather than for the barren and fever-cursed Zanzibar coast. If, as the opposition seems to charge, Great Britain has failed to round out and strengthen that great colonial empire, taking form at the heads of the Nile and touching her Egyptian dominions on the one side and the Congo Free State on the other, all she can have gained on the East coast will not pay her for the loss. But the treaty needs a deal of intelligent commentary to be understood.

"A SERIOUS QUESTION."

Under the heading of a "Serious Question," the Toronto Mail wants to know how the Government proposes to "afford relief to those provinces which are to all intents and purposes insolvent."

"Since 1867," points out the Mail, "the Dominion has assumed provincial debts or granted better terms to provinces to enable them to pay their way to the extent of $35,000,000. The province which stands in most need of assistance is Quebec. The total expenditure in Quebec this year is set down by the Treasurer at $5,500,000. The gross revenue will not exceed $3,750,000. Since 1887 the debt of the province has increased at the rate of two millions a year, and is now in excess of $30,000,000. The annual interest account has reached $1,200,000, or about one-third of the entire revenue. Yet instead of taking in sail Mr. Mercier is putting on more. Railway subsidies, iron bridges and roads for the municipalities, the remission of municipal debts, new gaols and court-houses, increased grants to the religious orders—these are some of the solid arguments which he is employing in the present campaign, and as the Treasurer pathetically observed in his last budget speech, the cry is still for more. Fresh taxes upon the lumbermen and the commercial corporations would be a dangerous expedient; whilst direct taxes upon the habitant, burdened with ecclesiastical imposts, are clean out of the question. At the present rate of going one of two things is certain—either the province will be forced to cease paying the annual interest due to its creditors, or the Federal Government must come to its relief.

Regarding Prince Edward Island, a politician has frankly declared, says the Mail, that Quebec's difficulty will be the Island's opportunity." "The Island is running behind at the rate of $20,000 a year; Nova Scotia is in even a worse predicament; and New Brunswick, though a little better off, is complaining that with her present allowance from the Dominion chest it is impossible for her to maintain her various provincial services as they ought to be maintained. If these provinces obtain assistance Ontario must be recouped somehow" (good for Ontario, but how about B.C.). "It would probably be necessary to add $20,000,000 to the debt in order to carry out such a scheme of better terms all round as would be of any value to the impoverished provinces." "And then there would be no finality in the arrangement, for so long as they are subsidized by the Dominion, so long may we look for and confidently expect to find a reckless administration of their finances. The Liberals, on the other hand, who control the local governments, plead that an extravagant course is forced upon them by the extravagance of Ottawa. Mr. Mercier has just promised to assume liabilities aggregating $682,000 in behalf of the counties of Bellechasse, Chicoutimi, Huntingdon, Arthabaska and Shefford. He is going to release some of them from their indebtedness to the province, while others are to have bridges and railway subsidies. It is a case of bribery by wholesale."

In Nova Scotia in 1886 the Liberals carried thirty-two of the thirty-eight seats in that Province. A few months afterwards Sir Charles Tupper won almost as sweeping a victory by sheer force of boodle and boodling promises. The Liberals saw that their only hope of remaining in power lay in adopting similar methods. Accordingly they went into the subsidizing business with an energy, considering the limited means at their command, worthy of Sir Charles himself. They subsidized railroads, they subsidized coasting steamers, they subsidized municipalities under cover of increasing the grants for roads and bridges; and then, the failure of the inshore fishery having left hundreds of persons in Cape Breton badly off, they subsidized the electors of that region with pork and molasses. (More bribery).

"In a sermon which he preached at Ottawa the other day Principal Grant of Kingston, touched upon the Rykert case, and half implied that the character of the Canadian people has been permanently lowered. This may or may not be the case, but it prefers to believe that the national system is still strong enough to expel the corruption with which it is tainted.

"It is manifest, however, that along with the marked decadence of public morality—perhaps to some extent by reason of it—the feeling is growing that Confederation is not destined to last long, and this is put forward in extenuation of the recklessness with which debt and expenditure are being piled up. Let us squander while we may, for to-morrow comes the crash, is the idea underlying the speeches of almost everyone in authority in the smaller provinces."

Can the people read such an arraignment as this without blushing for shame? If the state of affairs portrayed by the Mail be true, popular government is a farce, having no advantage over a despotism save in the fact that when ruin comes the people and not despots are responsible for it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A depression has been discovered in the Egyptian desert, which is all that remains of a reservoir constructed by the Patriarch Joseph for irrigation purposes when he was Pharaoh's Prime Minister. It is proposed to reopen it, and it has been established that this would add 3,000,000 acres to the 4,000,000 now under cultivation in Egypt. The reservoir originally covered 250 square miles, and was 250 feet deep.

LIVERPOOL, B.C.

The Fraser River Terminus of the New Westminster Southern Railway,

Opposite the rapidly growing City of New Westminster, and having deep water frontage on Fraser River.

The New Westminster Southern Railway runs from Liverpool to Fairhaven, Wash., where it connects with the great Northern Pacific Railway system. The Railway Company has now under construction at Liverpool a wharf 700 feet in length, costing about $10,000, and they intend to immediately erect workshops, passenger and freight stations, etc. The road is already graded between Liverpool and Fairhaven, and it is expected that trains will be in operation between the two places by 30th August, 1890.

A portion of the town site will be on the market on and after 16th June instant, and lots will be sold at low prices for a short time, and purchasers will have the benefit of first prices.

PROTEST AGAINST THE M'KINLEY BILL.

The protest of the New York Importers and Merchants against the McKinley Tariff Bill, says the Toronto Week, is a severe arraignment, and emanating from business men, as it does, cannot fail to have a powerful effect upon the minds of any of the United States Senators who may be in any measure open to conviction. The protest declares that the effect of the proposed tariff will be to prohibit the lines of business in which they are engaged, and will compel the closing up of their establishments, throwing large numbers of employers on the streets, many of whom will be able to find no other employment. The committee on cutlery declare that the tariff is so framed that it will drive every honest man out of the trade and put it into the hands of rogues. In fine, this protest, addressed by about four hundred and fifty of the leading New York firms, to the Senate and House of Representatives, declares that the McKinley Bill is "wholly unnecessary," that it does not accomplish its purpose, that it is unjust, and that it handicaps American trade, and retards the progress of the nation. A more formidable memorial is not often, we fancy, presented to Congress. Its effect remains to be seen.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The fall returns from West Kootenay give Mr. Kellie a majority of one over Mr. Brown, the Opposition candidate. Mr. Kellie is a minor, and although he received the support of the Government he can be depended upon to vote against the mineral policy of Robson & Co.

Statistics show that the mortality among coal miners in England is below the mean rate for men between the ages of twenty-five and sixty-five, notwithstanding the hazardous nature of their occupation. Inquiry into the causes of this surprisingly low death-rate developed the fact of the comparative immunity of coal miners from phthisis, the mortality from which was found to be 43 per cent. below the mean average for men. This immunity also exists in other coal mines of Europe, as in Belgium and Germany, and Dr. Hirt, after studying the conditions in Upper Silesia, came to the conclusion that it was highly probable that coal dust possessed the property of hindering the development of tuberculosis and of arresting its progress.

In the published results of the eleventh census of the United States there are some very interesting things. Not the least among them is the insight given with reference to public debts. Concerning these we learn that the total indebtedness of the States is $228,384,816, of which $194,954,206 is bonded debt and $33,725,610 floating debt. During the decade these State debts have increased $54,439,484 net, the bonded $64,063,249, while the floating has grown $9,623,764. The decrease by sections is: Eastern States $11,296,117, or 22 per cent.; Middle States, $11,397,482, or 24 per cent.; Southern States, $28,062,964, or 21 per cent.; and Western States $3,732,920, or 7 per cent. The reduction has been mainly secured, the report says, by applying to the redemption of their obligations the revenues not needed for current expenses. During the same period the United States has reduced its debt from $1,799,993,109 to $719,158,719, the total decrease of the Federal and State debts being $1,054,997,799. The most remarkable feature of these figures is the good showing made by the Southern States, which did better than either the east, west, middle or northern States. Louisiana alone of the Southern States increased its indebtedness. It piled up a great floating debt, increased its interest charges, and, worse than all, made no provision for future payment of its principal debt or its reduction in any way. Louisiana is the great lottery State, which probably accounts for its bad financial record.

"A general strike," says the Montreal Star, "of the London post office employees is threatened. The strike would probably be as disastrous to the strikers in the long run as it would be to the general public for a short time. It is impossible to conceive of anything that would so utterly demoralize the whole business of London as the temporary cessation of the postal service. People have become so accustomed to depend upon the mails and they pay so little for the service rendered by the Postmaster-General and his army of subordinates, that they fail to realize to what extent their business is dependent upon the post office. The Government would not dare to concede anything to the postal employes were the demands backed by a strike. There is an enormous population in England, the prevailing ambition of which is to get an appointment in the post office, and the Government would have no difficulty in replacing the strikers at short notice. That the Government would not dare to concede anything to the demands of the postal employees were the demands backed by a strike unquestionably is true, but why should the Government refuse to entertain the implied demands of their employes for an advance in wages when it is notorious that they are underpaid, and thus anticipate what it eventually will be compelled to do. It seems to us that men who perform their duties faithfully and intelligently, as do postal employes, are entitled to a compensation equivalent to that which the same faithfulness and intelligence would bring were they in the employ of private individuals. The efficiency of the postal department is simply phenomenal considering the meagre pay of its working force.

A Warning.

Mr. Editor,—It is a well-known fact that the majority of people are inclined to look upon a cold in the head as a matter of little importance—involving at the most only a temporary inconvenience. No more disastrous mistake was ever made. The neglected cold in the head is the source of the catarrhal affections with which about seven-tenths of the people of this country are afflicted, and catarrh itself is too often the preliminary stages to consumption and death. The symptoms of catarrh are manifold, but among them may be mentioned, offensive breath; dull, oppressive headache; offensive droppings from the nostrils into the throat and bronchial tubes; deafness or partial deafness; constant hawking and spitting; weak and watery eyes; a hacking cough and feeling of general debility; ringing in the ears and frequent dizziness. These are but a few of the more general symptoms, and those who experience them should lose no time in applying a remedy. Delays are proverbially dangerous, and in the case of this too prevalent disease may lead to death. We offer Nasal Balm to the public as a positive cure for cold in the head and for catarrh in all its forms and stages. Nasal Balm has been tested in thousands of cases, and the testimonials in our possession prove that it is all we claim for it. It has cured other sufferers, it will cure you. It is easy to use, pleasant and agreeable and does not require a douche or any torturing instrument to apply it. Give it a trial and be convinced of its great efficacy. THE TABLE OF PRECEDENCE.

How it Was Established—The Favored Few in Canada.

In view of the controversy now going on in the east over the precedence given Roman Catholics and Anglicans on state occasions, the following information as to how the table was established will be read with interest.

After confederation a consolidation of the orders for the whole of Canada was required. Lord Carnarvon, therefore, in the exercise of that paternal interest which he has always taken in the Dominion, kindly met the demand. Whether the table furnished by Lord Carnarvon was prepared by a clerk in the Colonial office, or by the regular officers-at-arms, who are supposed to settle matters of precedence, does not appear. But certain it is that it came out here clothed in all the authority the Colonial office could confer upon it, and at once became the law of the land. The table is based upon the British table of precedence. It gives the first position to the representative of the sovereign, and the second to lieutenant-governors and ex-governors; then, in imitation of the Imperial order, which confers a high official recognition upon the Archbishop of Canterbury and York and the bishops of the other English dioceses, its allnts to archbishops and bishops in Canada the third place. After these ecclesiastical dignitaries follow in the order of seniority members of the cabinet, the speaker of the Senate, the chief justices, members of the privy council not of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Commons, the puisne judges, the members of the House of Commons, the provincial ministers and the provincial legislators. The actual service this table renders to Canada the general public cannot understand, for the very good reason that it comes into operation on occasions when the people are not present to see how it works. It is at State receptions and State dinners that precedence asserts itself. At the former gatherings the visitors are presented to the Governor-General in the order Lord Carnarvon has fixed for them, while at the last the guests sit at table according to the same rule; that is to say, the Governor-General at a dinner occupies the chief seat, while below him come first the Lieut.-Governors and ex-governors who are present, the archbishops and bishops, the members of the cabinet, and so on to the foot of the table, where the provincial legislators may congregate and discuss walnuts and local politics. No doubt the arrangement is useful in practice, and particularly so at a feast, where it enables everybody to know his place and prevent any wrangling between bishops and senators and governors and judges about their seats. But the scheme is not without its anomalies. Mr. Dewdney, for example, as an ex-Governor, can occupy a higher place than is given to Sir John Macdonald, who ranks only as a minister; while the comparatively unknown Mr. Black, M. P., can take precedence of the abler and more popular Premier of Ontario. No complaint, however, is made of these lay distinctions. The point is that archbishops and bishops in Canada, where there ought to be no state church, are given official positions, while the clergy of churches which have no episcopal heads are left out in the cold.

Drowned.

We learn from the Free Press that a sad case of drowning occurred at Comox on Thursday evening. It appears a young man named J. T. Calagan, alias Dore, went in the water for the purpose of bathing, and after being in the water a short time he climbed on the wharf and took a header. Those who saw him go off did not think it worth while to watch him as he was known to be a good swimmer, but after being down some time they came to the conclusion that he was drowning, so a few of those present succeeded in getting a boat, and after he had been in the water three hours his body was brought to the surface.

Robson Challenged.

The following suggestive letter appears in the Columbian:

TO THE EDITOR.—Would you kindly insert the following extract from the Hon. John Robson's speech at Chilliwack, as reported by the World:

"Now, as regards the Big Prairie, I have repeatedly stated that the Government was prepared to meet your council in a liberal spirit in this matter. I so notified your reeve, Mr. Kitchen, and Mr. Reece, when they waited upon me in Victoria last winter on the subject. I advised them to submit a definite proposition to the executive so as to enable us to form a data whereon to work, and that answer would be sent in due course."

If the above is a correct report of the Hon. John Robson's speech, we must say his memory is very defective. When in Victoria the Hon. Mr. Robson told us that the Government did not wish to establish a precedent by improving the Seminault Creek, and that if the council would undertake the work the Government would give them an equivalent on the roads. We so reported to the council and the settlers.

NEW TRAIN OF THOUGHT.

George Francis Train Will Issue a Paper Semi-Occasionally.

TACOMA, June 19.—George Francis Train will publish a paper here. It has been named Train's Round the World Adventur. It will be issued semi-occasionally. When Mr. Train gets it loaded he will fire it off. The first number will appear next Saturday.

He has bought two houses in Wapato Lake park, and he has a view of the valley and railroad. He has sent for his son George Francis Train, jr., and his daughter, Miss Sue Train of New York city, who will occupy one of the cottages and the globe circumnavigator the other. A suburban railroad runs to Lake park, a school house is close by, and Train is already the center of a throng of romping children and curious spectators from the city. He shook hands the other day by mistake with a lady who looked to be young, and whose long dress, owing to the crowd, he did not see. He starved himself on bread and water for three days for the error, and has not been happy since.

"Pearl of Western Life,"

By H. R. A. Pocock, is for sale by Gill & Co., 45 Government St. at 25 cents.

CITY AND PROVINCIAL.

CASCADE CAVE.

A Beautiful Subterranean Grotto Discovered on Orcas Island.

A correspondent to the Seattle Post-Intelligencer says that on June 15 a party of gentlemen left Cascade bay fully equipped to explore the Orcas Island cave. After travelling a mile inland the party arrived at the entrance of the cave, which is situated on the north side of a large bluff of limestone on Mount Constitution. Candles were now passed around to all the members of the party, who were then ready to begin explorations. We now proceeded under the bluff by crawling on hands and knees for about fifty feet. Then the tunnel branched off into four passages three feet high. We went on in the main passage for twenty feet. It then opened out into a room 11x12 feet, the ceiling being studded with stalactites, which sparkled like diamonds as the light of the candles fell upon them. From this room there were numerous passages leading further under the mountain. We took the largest passage and proceeded, passing through innumerable chambers whose beauty surpassed anything that has ever been seen by any of the party. After proceeding on for some time in the same way further progress was stopped by a large lake, whose waters were as clear as crystal and as cold as ice. We all gathered on the shore of the lake and drank of its beautiful water. It was now deemed advisable to return to the surface, as our candles were half gone. After reaching the surface a speech was delivered by one of the party, who broke a bottle of champagne and christened the cave Cascade.

CHINESE IN THE MINES.

More Smuggling.

Mr. J. F. Tunts, S. M., held court in the Pythian Hall, Comox, on Thursday, to hear the charges preferred by Inspector of Mines A. Dick against Frank Little, Manager of the Union Colliery, for employing Chinese underground in contravention to the Coal Miners' Regulation Act. Mr. Luxton appeared on behalf of the defendant, the Inspector appearing in person.

After hearing the evidence and arguments the magistrate dismissed the information without costs on the ground of the absence of jurisdiction of Justices to entertain, hear or determine charges for the unlawful employment of Chinamen in coal mines, owing to the omission in the Act, which does not constitute the same to be an offence in respect of which convictions can be made and penalties imposed by magistrates.

A second charge shared the same fate, while a third information was withdrawn by the Inspector.

An Injured Hand.

Alderman Goodacre carries his left hand in a sling, he having sustained a jagged cut with a meat saw. The wound, while not dangerous, is very painful, and needs attention as there might be danger of blood poisoning.

Corporal Punishment.

The question has been asked very often lately what constituted corporal punishment? A gentleman connected with the city government to-day remarked that he thought corporal punishment was a sort of a tax on hides.

Sawyers Breaks Jail.

The young man Sawyers who was arrested at New Westminster the other day on a charge of burglary on Ald. Smith's house of this city, and who was being held there by the police, last night escaped by breaking gaol about five o'clock. Sergt. Walker went up from Victoria to bring the criminal here for trial, but his trip has evidently been for nothing.

Engine for the Crusher.

A gentleman who has considerable weight in commercial and business circles met a TIMES reporter to-day and remarked that he was glad to see the suggestion thrown out in reference to city providing an engine for the rock crusher in place of Jumbo. "Why," said he, "it is a foolish waste keeping the road roller in such employment, and the only wonder is that the matter has not been looked after long ago.

Old Boilers at Sooke.

Cohen & Co., of San Francisco, who have been buying up a lot of old iron and metal in different parts of the Province, and who broke up the steamer Wilson G. Hunt for the same purpose, have turned their attention to the boilers, etc., of the old mill at Sooke which was burned some years ago. Many tons of old metal are lying there, and much of it would be available. A representative of the firm has gone down to Sooke to look at the stuff with a view of purchasing.

Works the Same Here.

The Vancouver Telegram says: "It is observable that anyone coming here seeking a job, if able and willing to work with his hands, whether a mechanic or not, soon finds employment. On the other hand, it is noticeable that any young man with soft white hands, prominent middle name, who parts his hair in the middle, and wears a tall stiff collar, resembling a whitewashed board fence, reaching to his ears, may look a long time for a soft job without finding it." It is just the same in Victoria.

Protection Advised.

The following is the verdict of the coroner's jury, summoned to investigate the cause of the death of Frank Pratt of Vancouver, killed while coaling the steamship Parthia: "The deceased Frank Pratt came to his death by accident, said accident being due to carelessness on the part of the C. P. S. Co.'s authorities in not providing proper protection for their employees while employed in such dangerous work, and we recommend the Attorney-General to take such steps as to him seems fit invermely this condition of thing in the future." The opinion prevails amongst the dock laborers that the Kerr ought to be decked around the hoisting machinery, and that if this were done the possibility of further accidents would be avoided.

CORPORAL PUNISHMENT.

The Police Magistrate Recommends a Good Walloping for the Little Cherry Thieves.

Wm. Fletcher, F. Savage and A. Esnouf, little boys of 10, 11, and 12 years respectively, appeared before his honor this morning to answer to the charge of stealing cherries from Rev. Paddon. The boys all pleaded not guilty.

Rev. Paddon, who was called, testified that he saw the boys hanging around his orchard, and heard them say "Cheese it, cheese it." They pulled down a picket, and when he saw that it was down he ran after the boys. Two of them did not run, but the others did. Of course the parents of the boys, who were present in court, were of opinion that their boys were far beyond stealing cherries, but the evidence given by other boys clearly proved that they had had something to do with the affair. Fletcher, the youngest of the boys, put on a very bold front, and caused a good deal of amusement by the important appearance he put on when telling the witnesses by signs what to say. His honor said the best thing that could be done was for the parents to give the boys a good thrashing. Canon Paddon said his only object in taking the action was to put a stop to the nuisance and he asked his honor to deal leniently with the boys. He also said that he had decided to withdraw the charge, but as he had been threatened with a cross-charge by one of the parents he had gone on with the case. His honor finally decided to adjourn until Monday, the parents to whip the boys before that time.

Five Years for McCoombs.

The Seattle relief fund boodler, J. P. McCoombs, has been sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. His accomplice, J. W. Turner, got off with six months.

In Darkest Africa.

In wealth and accuracy of illustration no previous book of African travel will compare with the forthcoming one, "In Darkest Africa" will be in every way worthy of its incomparably interesting subject.

A British Columbian Abroad.

A special to the TIMES received last night from Ottawa, states that Denis Murphy, of Lac La Hache, B. C., carried off the silver medal for merit in Christian Doctrine at Ottawa College on Wednesday night.

Coming to Victoria.

The members of the Congregational Church of Port Townsend have chartered the steamer Sehome for an excursion to Victoria on Friday next. The plan is to leave Port Townsend at 7:30 o'clock Friday morning and come to Victoria, where two or three hours will be spent. The excursion will then proceed to Esquimalt, and the return will be made in the evening.

A Good Strike.

The Union Coal Company, says the Free Press, have just succeeded in making a lucky strike of a splendid eight foot seam of coal, about 40 feet below the surface, which is claimed to be of the best quality. This strike has created a new spirit in the vicinity, and it is looked upon as extremely fortunate as it will be the means of employing a large number of men, the consequence of which means that the town of Comox will now boom.

Victoria Trades Assembly.

The Victoria Trades Assembly met in Philharmonic Hall last evening and discussed several important questions that came up. A resolution was passed for presentation to the city council asking for the enforcement of the law for the prevention of food adulteration and short weights. It was also decided to communicate with the societies holding picnics, asking them to employ bands made up of union men only. The Chinese question was discussed at some length and a further debate on the subject was left for the next meeting.

Dominion Day Excursions.

The rolling stock of the E. & N. railway will be well utilized on the first and fourth of July. The First Presbyterian Church will hold the annual Sunday School picnic on Langford Plains on that day. The Pandora street Methodist Sunday School children will hold their annual picnic at the same place and on the same day. A poultry and pet stock show will be held at Duncan's on Dominion Day.

On the 4th of July the Independent Order of Good Templars, of the Victoria and Nanaimo lodges will picnic together at Somenos.

Of Interest to Travelers.

Two publications have just been issued by the C.P.R., which will be of much interest to travelers. One is "Summer Tours, 1890," giving in brief and comprehensive form the routes, time tables and prices from and to different points on the line, and also a schedule of connections with American cities. Interesting sketches of the most important points are given, together with several finely executed views. "The New Highway to the Orient" is a more elaborate publication, and is a well written and illustrated style, describes a trip from England to the East via the C.P.R. Both pamphlets contain much valuable information.

Elocution and the culture of the voice. Frederic Adderley, Professor of Elocution (prize medallist, 1882) gives lessons in the above. Amateurs coached. For terms address 115 Government St. *

What's the Reason?

The causes of summer complaint, diarrhœa, dysentry, cholera morbus, etc., are the excessive heat, eating green fruit, over exertion, impure water and sudden chill. Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry is an infallible and prompt cure for all bowel complaints from whatever cause.

THE MINERS' STRIKE.

—Effects of the Strike.

Appearances at Wellington would indicate that the strike of the miners was nearing an end. A great many of the married men who have children, are anxious that the affair should be settled and at once, as the lack of employment is beginning to make itself felt, especially in those cases where nothing has been put by for a rainy day.

One of the results of the strike was very noticiable the first of this week, when the striking miners were paid off, and that was the lack of cash to be obtained by collectors of monthly bills. Pay day in the mining towns is the great settling day, but in this instance many of the unemployed were compelled to retain most of their cash. The result of this is that many of the small traders have not been able to meet payments.

Everybody in business hopes that the strike will soon end. The present state of affairs means a monetary loss of many thousands of dollars per month, and this loss is beginning to be felt.

Invited to Attend.

An invitation has been issued from the Dominion Day celebration committee of Vancouver to the chief and officers of the Victoria fire department asking them to attend the sports to be held there on the 1st of July.

Recaptured.

The burglar Peter Sawyer, whose escape from gaol at New Westminster, is chronicled in another column, was recaptured this afternoon, Supt. Shepard having received a wire to that effect. Sergt. Walker will be down to-night with young Craigie, Sawyer's companion, and Supt. Shepard will go up to-morrow morning for Sawyers.

Special Card.

As the public have so generously contributed to the success of my great reduction sale, I am induced to continue it for one month longer on the same terms. Here are the most liberal prices ever offered in British Columbia or elsewhere: $10 pants for $7, $12 pants for $8, $14 pants for $10, $16 pants for $12, $30 suits for $25, $35 suits for $30, $40 suits for $35. All work guaranteed a perfect fit or no sale. J. McCallum, "The famous Californian Tailor," 43 Fort street, Victoria, B. C. Prompt and careful attention to letter orders. Samples mailed. my29-1m

Action for Libel.

In consequence of some remarks by Chairman Hayward, at the school trustee meeting, in respect to the course taken by Mr. Heisterman in the Halliday case, Mr. Heisterman published a letter in the TIMES, which Mr. Hayward has taken umbrage at. An action for libel has been entered, damages being placed at $5000. Mutual friends, we understand, are endeavoring to effect a settlement, and, speaking from experience, we would advise an adjustment of the difficulty without recourse to the law. Libel suits are only a vexation of spirit—especially to the losing side.

New Grocery.

Mr. Geo. Munro and Mr. J. M. Hughes have entered into partnership for the purpose of carrying on a grocery business in this city. The stand selected by them is in the brick block at the corner of Yates and Douglas streets, which is fast becoming a retail centre of Victoria. Messrs. Munro and Hughes are both well known. The former has been in the employ of Capt. J. D. Warren, as bookkeeper and purser for the past six years and has the advantage of a good business training, a large acquaintance with the business public combined with a good reputation. The same may be said of Mr. Hughes, who has had an experience of seven years in the grocery business in the employ of J. Gosnell & Co., and who has a large circle of friends. The new firm will open on Monday.

After the Sealers.

The revenue cutter Corwin has arrived in Port Townsend from San Francisco and she will await orders at that port. She is provisioned for a four month's cruise and will be stationed principally at and near Ounalaska. The Leader in commenting on her cruise says: None of the vessels that will be in the sea this year can go faster than ten knots an hour under the most favorable circumstances, and the sealing vessels expect to have no difficulty in keeping out of their way. Should any, unfortunately for them, be seized, they will be stripped of all their hunting paraphrenalia, their papers taken, and only enough provisions left on board to keep the crew until the nearest United States port is reached. The idea is to prevent the seized vessels getting back to Victoria, as was done in several instances last year.

F. Richards, the Champion Boot Black, formerly with W. Whittaker, has taken an 18 months' lease of the Gem barber shop window, 74 Yates street, opposite the Poodle Dog. Call and get a patent leather shine. *

MASONIC GRAND LODGE.

A Most Successful Gathering at Vancouver—A Good Banquet.

The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of British Columbia was opened at Vancouver on Thursday, over forty members being present. The annual address was delivered by Mr. J. H. Clute, of New Westminster, who congratulated the Lodge upon its present standing and increased prosperity during the past year. A large number of new members had been enrolled in the various subordinate lodges, and the present financial condition of the order in the Province was excellent, there being no delinquents. After the address of the Grand Master, Deputy Grand Master Angus McEwen delivered his address. Routine business was then transacted and the Lodge adjourned to meet at 7 o'clock.

In the evening the members of the Grand and local lodges paraded to St. James church and listened to a sermon by the Chaplain, Lord Bishop Sillitoe, after which all the lodges repaired to the Hotel Vancouver where a banquet had been prepared, which was tendered by the Grand Lodge to the local lodges. The same was greatly enjoyed and one of the pleasantest evenings passed. Song and story whiled away the hours, after due attention had been given to the good things provided.

DES MOINES RE-DIVISION.

The Union Pacific Railway to Make a Depot There.

Among the significant railroad moves at present being made in the vicinity of Tacoma, may be mentioned the survey by Union Pacific surveyors of a short line route to Seattle. This work has been vigorously prosecuted during the past few days, and has brought the surveyors near to the south line of the Des Moines townsite. The officials of the Union Pacific have secured the privilege of location of a depot, and have promised to locate one in the original townsite of Des Moines. This will redeem this once bustling burg from the condition of temporary quietude into which it, along with many other points along the Sound had fallen. The result of these movements has been an increased demand for Des Moines property as witnessed by the transfers made and published in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. On a recent occasion, nearly three-fourths of the transfers were of Des Moines property. A very healthy indication is that parties who already held property at this point have increased their holdings. With a shore line railroad between the two cities, a rapid increase of value of the water front lands will take place, and the fir-clad slopes will soon become studded with homes, surrounded with lawns and orchards. The view along shore will then eclipse the scenery along the famed Hudson river.—Tacoma Journal.

Successful Winding up.

The R. C. Cathedral Bazaar was finally wound up in Philharmonic Hall when the raffles came off and the lucky ones went home with many pretty things. A committee of judges superintended the raffling and awarding of prizes to the satisfaction of all. The following is the list of prizes and prize winners: A painted banner, won by Mrs. Burnes; cushion, Mrs. Ash; silver egg stand, Mrs. Beckingham; gilt paper rack, Hon. Theo. Davie; oil painting by Mrs. Bridges, Mrs. M. Murphy; green plush chair, Mrs. Haynes; piano lamp, Mr. Galliant; Japanese cabinet, Mrs. D. F.
